

Hetch Hetchy Communications System Upgrade Project

SITE VISIT: MARCH 23rd

The National Park Service, United States Forest Service, and San Francisco Public Utilities Commission are proposing a series of critical improvements to communication equipment in Tuolumne County, including the potential addition of one new communications tower in the Hetch Hetchy area of Yosemite National Park. An Environmental Assessment / Initial Study is being prepared for this project, and we're looking for your input. Join us for a tour of the area, where we will discuss feasibility and siting options with project managers, technical experts, and the public.
